When it comes to luxurious yachts and super-sized nautical platforms, Dynamiq's small, but respected inventory has continued to enamor the water-faring masses. If you've been waiting for something a bit more illustrious to cleanse your palette, however, the brand's newest GTM 90 — a cutting-edge boat crafted alongside Klassen, one of Germany's foremost vehicle tuners — might be the next best thing.

The unison of Klassen and Dynamiq's unquestionable design choices has resulted in the creation of the all-aluminum 27.5-meter yacht that you see here, calling upon an efficient hard chine hull crafted by the Netherlands' Van Oossanen Naval Architects to provide exceptional protection for the crew. To keep the yacht moving in the right direction, it boasts three powerful Volvo Penta IPS 1350 pods, resulting in speeds of 30kn+, and helping it to reach a respectable distance of 921 miles under normal cruising conditions. Inside, a well-outfitted forward salon and a bar/galley area overlook the boat's aft beach club, utilizing fold-down bulwarks and sliding-glass doors to expose denizens to the sun, or protect them during bouts of inclement weather. Head downstairs to find the boat's four guest cabins and lavish master suite, which has been finished in fine onyx and furniture pieces from the Bentley Home collection. Head to Dynamiq's website to configure your own for $8,135,000 and up.
