Yacht builder Dynamiq Yachts has officially launched its refit operations in the Antalya Free Zone, Turkey. The addition to its current services in the south of Turkey, marks the start of a new chapter in bespoke yacht refits for Dynamiq.

“Dynamiq aims to be the go-to shipyard in Turkey for any refit needs, whether it’s routine seasonal upkeep or extensive modifications, including complex conversions,” explained Dynamiq Yachts.

The yard is equipped with the most up-to-date infrastructure and is designed to accommodate superyachts up to 65 metres. Dynamiq has obtained special government authorisation in the area and will leverage local craftsmanship and tight quality control for all projects.

The first vessel to participate in the refit program is the 38.6-metre Dynamiq yacht Spring, previously known as Jetsetter. The yacht has already arrived at the state-of-the-art facility, marking the beginning of a comprehensive and intricate refit.

“This project will cover a wide range of refurbishments, from propulsion systems overhauls to interior upgrades and more. One of the refit’s main jobs is the thorough maintenance of the pods and their gearboxes, led by accredited Reintjes technicians, guaranteeing quality and precision,” concluded Dynamiq Yachts.
